Personalized service... consistent quality... intelligent solutions... get all this and more from a partner who is geared to understand your exact business needs. We provide solutions that are innovative, cost-effective and successful.

Welcome to the world of Iqura!

The world is changing, people are coming closer and countries are getting networked. A world of business opportunities is unfolding, to reveal an ever-expanding ocean of possibilities; and awaits successful businesses, and you know it's yours for the taking.

But spiraling costs, lack of quality resources and mushrooming competition are making the journey seem all the more difficult. You need a partner who has the ability to understand your every need and conceptualize and create solutions that satisfy those very needs. So you can get there without a hitch.

Then it's time you looked at outsourcing, a step that will allow you to focus your time and resources on translating the opportunity into a viable business, while your outsourcing partner takes care of everything else.

Outsourcing ensures that you get specialized services that guarantee continuous value-addition to your offerings. Add to this the shorter time-to-market, complete accountability and the obvious advantage of cost and you know you've made your best move forward.

But outsourcing, like any new business step, has its hidden complications. Hence, discretion and foresight become all the more important. Weak credentials veiled by attractive packaging often lead to clients ending up with unsuccessful project implementations and faltering businesses. Large vendors may not have the ability to give the personalized attention your business requires. Thus, outsourcing can substantially improve your business benefits, but only if you choose the right partner.

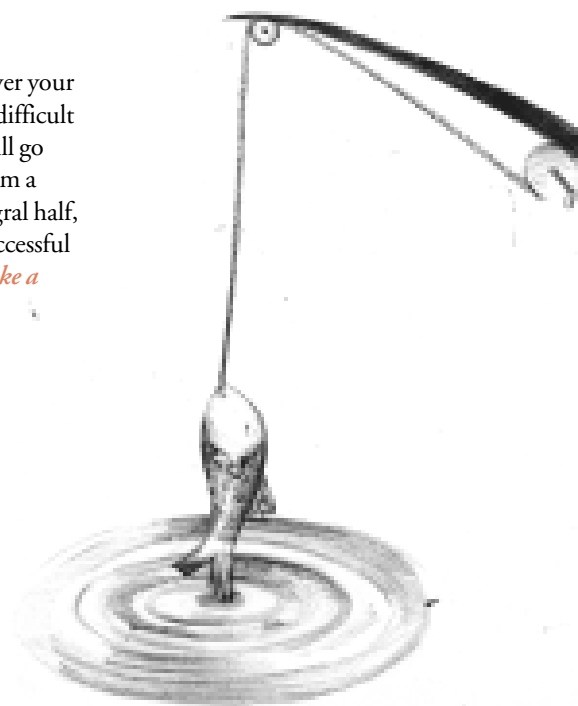

Which is why you need a partner who can give you the assurance of quality and success. More importantly, you need a partner who will go beyond the traditional definitions of consulting and provide effective, personalized solutions. One company has the required expertise and proven credentials to give you all this and more, and that company is Iqura.

Iqura is a turnkey provider of a complete portfolio of personalized application development and outsourcing solutions, designed to dramatically improve business efficiencies of customers across the globe.

Which means that whatever your requirements or however difficult they might seem, Iqura will go the extra mile to make them a reality. We will be an integral half, your partner towards a successful solution. So go ahead, make a wish...
